

Appl. No. 10/605,851
Amdt. dated December 29, 2005
Reply to Office action of September 30, 2005

Please replace the Abstract with the following replacement Abstract:

A computer system includes a processor for processing data, a storage unit for storing data, and a liquid-cooling thermal module for dissipating heat generated by the processor. The thermal module has a heat liquid coolant carrying pipe adjacent to the processor for 5 conducting heat, and a cooling device. The cooling device has a plurality of tanks, which are connected with each other.